In June, 1869, Mr. Peabody addressed to the board a letter of appreciation for their service in carrying out his trust, in which he conveyed a gift of securities worth nearly a million and a half dollars. These letters certainly stand out as among the most remarkable documents in the history of educational philanthropy to this time. There were only the most general restrictions on the funds, and these were to end after 30 years, leaving the trustees almost entirely free to dispose of the entire fund. The best proof of their great distinction, as we shall see, lies in the fact that they have been the precedent for all similar subsequent foundations. 2. THE JOHN P. SLATES FUND. The second of these foundations was the John F. Slater Fund for the Education of Freedmen, established on March 4, 1882, by a gift of $1,000,000. In a letter of date March 4, 1882, Mr. Slater invites 10 men to form a corporation for the administration of the fund, and in this letter he sets forth the purposes he wishes to achieve, together with the restrictions he places upon the gift. He names as the general object--1 See Proc. of Trustees of Peabody Bduc. Fund, Vol I, p. 1 C Peabody Educ. Fund, Proc, Vol. II, p. 142 IT. the uplifting of the lately emancipated population of the Southern States, and their posterity, by conferring on them the blessings of Christian education. He seeks...
