There are few securities which will compare in point of safety and equal the record of western farm loans. The laws of eastern states, as a general rule, have been against the investment of funds by savings banks and life insurance companies in this class of security. There are perhaps no reasons for this course of eastern legislatures against western farm mortgages, or in fact western securities of any class, other than that they are western. Agricultural interests are conceded by all to be the very foundation upon which the prosperity of the country depends. As long as the farms are prosperous and have good crops, just so long are all classes of business in a good state of prosperity. If, through a failure of crops at any time, the farmer is unable to meet his store bills, the merchant is unable to pay...
